Moving English Learners Forward on the TELPAS grades 3-12

TWO-DAY SESSION

We invite your classroom teachers and cross-curricular teams to attend this two-day institute. In this practical training, participants will gain an understanding of how to accelerate students' language proficiencies through effective content-area instruction. Participants will create language-focused activities intentionally designed to help move students forward on TELPAS.

In this training, we will explore specific strategies that incorporate technology into content-area classrooms, helping students prepare for the speaking portion of the TELPAS assessment. Participants will create working lessons tailored specifically for their content-area.

Participants will receive:

- Strategies for improving student performance on all TELPAS domains
- Specific approaches to increasing students' TELPAS speaking scores
- Tips for increasing student motivation toward TELPAS achievement
- Student-friendly TELPAS rubrics
- Sample TELPAS-aligned, content-area classroom activities

Who Should Attend:

- Content-area teachers of English Learners grades 3-12
- ESL teachers, Coaches, and Specialists
- ESL/Bilingual Directors and Coordinators
- Campus Administrators

presented by

Natalia Heckman calls Goose Creek ISD her home and her alma mater - that was where she started her career in education. Trained in Russia as a technical writer and a translator, Natalia never thought about becoming a teacher, but after her first year in a classroom, she knew that teaching was her calling and her mission. Natalia has taught English and ESOL classes, assisted teachers as an ELA and Social Studies Instructional Coach, and served as an ESL/Bilingual program specialist for GCCISD.

She currently pursues her passion for linguistics and education as an educational consultant with Seidlitz Education. Natalia holds a bachelor's degree in literature from the University of Houston at Clear Lake and a master's degree in school administration from Lamar University.

Allison Hand comes to us from Region 13 where she delivered professional development as well as coached in secondary schools working with teachers on sheltered instruction and ESL strategies. She worked for several years as an ELA and Reading teacher of ESL and language learning students at both the middle and high school levels. As a passionate advocate for her students, she moved into Instructional Coaching to share her knowledge with colleagues.

Allison earned a Master's in Teacher Leadership from Lamar University and a Bachelor's in Education from the University of New Mexico. She has had the opportunity to present both in Texas and internationally.
