DR. STEPHEN FLEENOR joined Seidlitz Education in 2018 as an expert in science instruction. With a PhD in Developmental Neurobiology from Oxford and extensive experience teaching ELs, economically disadvantaged students, and other special-needs students in San Antonio, Dr. Fleenor has bridged the demands of science curriculum with the needs of academic language learners. In addition to training and instructional coaching, Dr. Fleenor has written blogs, book chapters, and has even authored his own science fiction novel.

In the upcoming school year, are you hoping to see more students speaking and writing using science vocabulary words in context? The Visual Non-Glossary is a resource designed to do just that! With over 700 structured visuals aligned to key science vocabulary and over 2,100 conversation prompts based on the visuals, The Visual Non-Glossary is an invaluable tool for next-generation, student-centered instruction. In this workshop, which includes access to The Visual Non-Glossary, Dr. Fleenor models and explains how to use the resource in a variety of different lessons.

In this 3-hour workshop, participants will:

- Engage with The Visual Non-Glossary website
- Plan out structured conversations using The Visual Non-Glossary
- Practice interacting with The Visual Non-Glossary from both the teacher and student perspective
- Engage with a variety of strategies to facilitate deep, structured conversations in the classroom

Who should attend:

- Science teachers of ELs, bilingual learners, and English-only learners
- ESL teachers
- Campus/district administrators
- Instructional coaches and specialists
- District science and ESL coordinators

Workshop includes free one-year access to The Visual Non-Glossary!
