Natalia Heckman

Natalia has taught English and ESOL classes and assisted teachers as ELA Instructional Coach and an ESL/Bilingual program specialist.

She currently pursues her passion for linguistics and education as an educational consultant with Seidlitz Education. Natalia holds a bachelor's degree in literature from the University of Houston at Clear Lake and a master's degree in school administration from Lamar University

Allison Hand is an Educational Consultant for Seidlitz Education. Her previous educational roles included: classroom teacher, Sheltered Instruction instructional coach, Bilingual/ESL instructional specialist, and professional development instructor.

Allison earned a Master's in Teacher Leadership from Lamar University and a Bachelor's in Education from the University of New Mexico. She has had the opportunity to present both in Texas and internationally.

WHAT IT IS:

This workshop outlines simple steps that will make the essay writing portion of the EOC assessment less threatening. Participants will explore approaches for secondary ESL and ELA teachers to scaffold instruction and boost students' performance on the essay portion of the EOC. The workshop includes an opportunity to examine the required elements of the essays and learn how to help students incorporate these elements into their writing.

PARTICIPANTS WILL RECEIVE:

- Persuasive or Expository Writing Unit with lesson examples
- Graphic organizers, sentence stems, and paragraph frames
- Color-coding and revision activities

WHO SHOULD ATTEND:

- ELA / ESL teachers of English learners in grades 9-12
- ESL Instructional Coaches and Specialists
- ELA Instructional Coaches and Specialists
